

BASIC FIRST AID V

29 CFR 1910.151(b)

Most of us know how to clean a small cut and apply a bandage. Most of us also know how to put an ice pack on a bruise. But, do you know what to do if you see one of your coworkers lying unconscious on the floor?	Discussion Date: Employee Participants:
Our first-aid-trained responders do! When someone is unresponsive, there can be dozens of causes. Finding out the cause is important when long-term treatment is necessary, but what is most important at that very moment is remembering the ABC's.
If you haven't been trained or are not sure what to do, call for help. These individuals have been first aid trained:
They may ask you to call 9-1-1. While that is happening, they will be checking the following, in this order:
Airway > Breathing > Circulation
They are also trained to provide basic first aid until medical professionals arrive and to treat minor scrapes, burns, cuts, splinters, insect stings, sprains and strains.
Our first aid kits are located
They are checked regularly. If they need to be restocked, contact
If you need help and cannot contact a trained first aid responder, never hesitate call 9-1-1.
OUR SITE SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS/PROCEDURES ▼
	Continue employee participants on back if needed

Phone: 1-800-HOT-HOGS (468-4647) newpig.com/expertadvice